Bill Shorten responds to Mr Turnbull's call on Budget cuts, outlines $80 billion in savings

Opposition Leader Bill Shorten has pitched his idea of doubling the tax rate to high income earners.

This comes after the Federal Turnbull Government wants to introduce a $500,000 lifetime on super-tax superannuation contributions, backdated to 2007.

Though Mr Shorten agreed with The Liberal Party's plans to change that limit, currently set at $180,000 a year, however Mr Shorten wants the superannuation cap to take effect from their last budget night rather than the Liberal backdated cap to 2007.

Under Labor's idea, Mr Shorten wants to lower the super contribution threshold so that anyone earning over $200,000 a year will pay 30 per cent tax on their contributions rather than the 15 per cent that the Liberals are planning to hold the cap on.

He also suggested some points Mr Turnbull and his Liberal team should use, such as negative gearing, tax deductions and discount, which the Liberals felt it wouldn't help improve Australia during the latest federal election last month.

Mr Shorten today concluded his speech aiming at Mr Turnbull over a lack of contribution.

"They don't give us the detail," he said.

"Have you ever heard of someone negotiating by getting a microphone and just saying 'trust us'?"

Parliament House will return next week after a long a month and half off following the latest federal election.

Marcus Stanford jailed for aiding twin Brother Vincent Stanford who murdered Stephanie Scott.

The twin brother of Vincent Stanford has been sentenced to one year and three months for being an accessory to murder schoolteacher Stephanie Scott.

However he will be free in 16 days. Marcus Stanford waited inside the court room as Justice

Robert Allan Hulme described his decision to pin out and sell her two romantic rings and her drivers licence as "Utterly Appalling."

"It was an act of a man that put morality and human decency secondary to the interests of his murderous brother."

A supporter of Stephanie Scott threw a foul-mouthed rant calling him "piece of s****" when Marcus Stanford walked away in handcuffs.

Vincent Stanford will be sentenced in October.

Australian woman denied entry to the United Kingdom

A Melbourne woman Jody Cleaver says she was denied entry to the UK following leaked details about the content contained on her personal diary.

She carried with her personal diary with notes inside about her whereabouts of her proposed overseas stay.

But when she touched base at London's Stansted Airport, Ms Cleaver was held stranded for the night by the UK interrogation officials before deporting her back to Rome.

Ms Cleaver has denied she written any plans of how she would intend to stay in the UK, though she did write on her diary when she has written plans to find long-term work with a view of obtaining a visa in either Spain, France or Italy.

Ms Cleaver took to Facebook to describe her short flight to the UK.

“They thought I would want to work there....They asked if I had printed CVs in my bag. Like it was in 1992.”

Ms Cleaver was told she cannot return to the UK for six months and would be asked each time she would attempt to legally enter the UK.

A Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade spokesman said they played “no role relevant to the sovereign decisions of other countries in relation to visa and migration matters.”

Adelaide Crows forward Eddie Betts says he forgives the Port Adelaide Supporter who threw a banana at him during Saturday Night AFL encounter at Adelaide Oval.

The accused woman had her membership cancelled, been banned from attending Port Adelaide matches and will undergo cultural awareness training.

Police also issued a $543 fine for disrespectful behaviour.

Betts told Adelaide radio station 5AA that the incident is still targeted towards racism in AFL whom Betts has a part Aboriginal background, but says he was ready to move on.

“she has come out and apologised ... I forgive her for what she’s done and I think everyone should forgive as well.”

Betts says he hoped the woman could “come back and enjoy the footy.”

“This is all about education. Like I said, It’s never too late to learn,” Betts said.

“She came out and apologised, I don’t hold grudges— I forgive her for what she’s done and I think everyone should forgive was well”-- Eddie Betts speaking on 5AA

Pakistan Cricket Team back on top in the Test Championship Rankings

Pakistan has moved in front of Arch rivals India to become the world number one test ranked nation for the first time since the International Cricket Council introduced the points system in 2003.

A wet outfield in Trinidad forced a draw in the fourth test match between West Indies v India, a match that Pakistan needed to retain the No1 Spot.

Pakistan, who played their home games in the United Arab Emirates since a bus attack on the Sri Lankan bus in Lahore in 2009, won the fourth and final test in England to seal a 2-2 draw.

Pakistan became the 5th team after Australia, England, India and South Africa to top the test rankings.

Pakistan will be presented with the ICC Test Championship mace in the next couple of days.

About the Editor

Matthew Li is an aspiring journalist currently studying Diploma Screen and Media Journalism course at Petersham TAFE West Street.

Matthew has long grew up with the love of watching live sport on the front of the TV and even live streaming on the computer or even he's on his tablet and mobile on the go.

He has developed an all-rounder speciality in the media so far through writing news stories (both sport and general news) as well as scripting and planning a variety of projects that are associated with TAFE such as presenting and interviewing through vox pops both on campus and on site through Newtown and the Sydney CBD.

He hopes the skills he obtained in the course he currently studies would help him complete the diploma by the end of 2016 in the eye for another job that will enhance his next phase of being part in the media industry.

The Editor's Letter of the week

Dear Readers,

I have enjoyed my time at TAFE Petersham as a diploma student, I have learned a lot about social media strategy with my classmates to make our project story map clear to our audience, the team is right and pumped to make our story a very successful start.

In the last week or so, I have finished my audio piece rearranged my intro and questions to make uniquely factual and make questions more in-depth and really hard just as toughening up the BBQ!! Lol

It was so much better than the one in the first stint pretty much my preferred location the studio indoors than the airplane crossed outdoors, I know sunny days, great shelter but noiser as it gets because it really ruins the audio quality of the material.

At least I self critique my audio piece.

Same goes to the audio when I did the Michael Phelps video piece, had a lapel mic just like I did with the audio package, standing in front of a brick layered building plus added images that are free to use on Premiere elements so had company for a bit at least 1 person holding my phone and script made, a bit of bloopers at the start but a great delivery in the end, only the bloopers has been cut off and the video piece already delivered on time.

Media Law with Natalie, the head teacher at this site showed how we can escape the suing demand of cash such as the ethics of what use must carefully use in the media so it was a lesson worth to go through weekly.

Another week goes by for now, look forward to next week.

Cheers,

Matthew Li
